The Elf Khurafeh Shrine Center, which covers 26 eastern Michigan counties, held its annual spring celebration in Grayling last weekend. New members were inducted into the Shriners at the event. A parade was held on Saturday, featuring several Shrine Clubs from across the state. Above, Walt Zajkowski, who goes by the clown name AU, which is short for Ay, You or Angels Unlimited, spoofed politicians running for office in the parade.

Quick action prevents wildfire

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Swift action taken by employees of a logging company and area fire fighters prevented what could have been a devastating wildfire on Friday.

A piece of logging equipment, called a feller buncher, caught fire around 1:35 p.m. on Friday, June 8, off of Arrowhead Road in Grayling Charter Township.

The equipment, owned by Chris Muma Forest Products of Gladwin, cuts trees, bunches them up and puts them in piles.

Employees from the logging company kept the fire at bay with fire extinguishers after calling 911, said Mike Janisse, fire suppression supervisor for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Grayling forest unit.

A DNR fire detection airplane was in the air, when the equipment caught on fire. The pilot was able to direct appropriate DNR fire fighting crews to the area. The Frederic Township Fire Department, Grayling Fire Department and Bear Lake Township Fire Department assisted with battling the blaze. Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy Shawn Schnoor was at the scene to block the roadway.

The logging equipment was totally destroyed, Janisse said. Less than a tenth of an acre of land, located on the Hanson Game Refuge, was destroyed by the fire.

"It was just trees that they were cutting," Janisse said.

Janisse said rain, which came through the area, helped keep the fire under control along with having proper safety equipment on hand.

"We were fortunate they had fire extinguishers and also cell phones," Janisse said.

WIGWAM MOVED TO CRAWFORD COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM

The wigwam, which was built in the Grayling City Park to honor Chief David Shoppenagon, was moved to the Crawford County Historical Museum grounds on Monday. Shoppenagon, a Chippewa Indian, moved his family to Grayling in 1876. Shoppenagon was a noted hunter, trapper and fishermen, who guided some of Grayling's first settlers on hunting and fishing outings. He also served as a representative for the local lumber industry. Jim Giessel, a Waters resident who was given the Native American name "White Buffalo," said he was proud that the wigwam was in place in the park for the 100th anniversary of Shoppenagon's passing in Grayling. Vandals, however, kept breaking pieces of the structure. "As fast as I could fix it, it would get broken again," Giessel said. The City of Grayling's Parks and Recreation Committee asked for substantial completion of the wigwam or for its removal. Giessel said the wigwam will fare better at the museum with the fenced in grounds. Pictured, volunteers strap the wigwam on a trailer in the city park.

Gov. Rick Snyder ordered that flags be lowered to half-staff on June 11 through June 13 to honor the passing of 46th Circuit Court Judge Dennis F. Murphy.

"Judge Murphy was an accomplished and dedicated circuit court judge and public servant, and he will long be remembered for his commitment to excellence and the citizens of northern Michigan," Snyder said. "I extend my sincere condolences to his family and many friends."

Murphy is a graduate of Oakland University and the Detroit College of Law, which is now the Michigan State University College of Law.

Following law school, Murphy enjoyed a successful legal career as an assistant prosecutor in Lapeer County, as a drug unit chief in Flint and as the Otsego County Prosecutor. He also served as chief legal counsel to the State Department of Corrections.

Gov. John Engler appointed Murphy to his seat on the 46th Circuit Court in 1996. The court covers Crawford, Kalkaska and Otsego Counties.

Officials deliver imminent danger order to business

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Heath Department and law enforcement officials delivered an imminent danger order to one Grayling business last week to halt the sale of synthetic marijuana and bath salts.

Linda Van Gills, chief health officer for District Health Department #10, delivered the imminent danger order to Fantasies Unlimited, located at 6131 West M-72.

Crawford County Prosecutor Everett "Trey" Ayers and Crawford County Sheriff's Deputies joined Van Gills, when the order was delivered to the business on Thursday afternoon.

Van Gills said an employee at the business was cooperative and contacted the owner. She said the owner was also cooperative and had no questions.

An employee at the business said she had "no comment" when contacted by the Crawford County Avalanche on Monday.

The order bans the sale and use of synthetic marijuana, called spice or K2, which is sold as potpourri or incense. Bath salts, which contain a number of synthetic chemicals which are strong stimulants, are also banned by the order.

Some items were seized from the business.

"They logged in all material that was confiscated that were identified in the order,"

Van Gills said.

Crawford County, Crawford AuSable School District and law enforcement officials joined together to request the Health Department to move forward with a plan to declare use of synthetic and designer drugs as an imminent danger.

"It was a strong cooperative effort to solve an issue that has become a problem in the community," Van Gills said.

Stores circumvent laws, which were placed on the books in 2010, by stating they do not contain certain ingredients or are not for human consumption.

Van Gills said state laws, recently passed by the Michigan Legislature, should go into effect before they recess for the summer.

"Hopefully, there will be better laws in place that will address when they change the compounds that are in these substances," Van Gills said.

Woman ordered to pay back money

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

A former board member and treasurer for the Roscommon County Cooperative Nursery School was ordered to pay back thousands of dollars she was accused of embezzling from the school.

Bonnie Lewandowski, 44, was sentenced in Crawford County District Court on June 5.

Chief Probate/District Judge Monte J. Burmeister ordered Lewandowski to pay back $15,590 to the non-profit school. She was also ordered to pay $2,350 in fines and court costs.

Finally, Burmeister ordered Lewandowski to enter a crime program dealing with economics and placed her on probation for 252 days.

Lewandowski plead guilty to embezzlement-agent/trustee over $200 less than $1,000 on May 31 in a plea deal reached with the Crawford County Prosecutor's Office. More stringent felony charges of using a computer to commit a crime, which has a penalty of seven years in prison and a $5,000 fine, and embezzlement over $1,000 but under $20,000, which has a penalty of five years in prison, $10,000 in fines or three times the amount embezzled, were dropped with the plea agreement.

Detective Sgt. Katherine Trietch from the Houghton Lake Post of the Michigan State Police investigated the case.

The criminal charges were filed in the Crawford County District Court since the Roscommon County Cooperative Nursery School was established in Crawford County, State Police said.

The school was started in 1969 and has been located in various buildings. For several years, the school was located on M-18, which is the southern border for Crawford County. In 2009, the school was moved to the Messiah Lutheran Church in Roscommon.

Almanack

by Richard Milliman

Could Michigan duplicate Wisconsin recall vote?

WISCONSIN VOTERS have finally capped an ideological battle that began almost 18 months ago by keeping Republican Gov. Scott Walker in office.

Mr. Walker became the first sitting governor to survive a recall vote, a device that has gone to the voters only three times in the United States. The other two beleaguered governors lost, most recently Gov. Gray Davis in California in 2003.

Wisconsin recall laws differ from Michigan law. After petitions for recall were filed with about 900,000 signatures, Democrats had to pick an opponent for the sitting governor, and chose Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett, who was beaten by Gov. Walker in the regular election of 2010 by six percentage points.

So the Wisconsin recall question centered on the Walker-Barrett choice, and not on anti-union legislation Gov. Walker championed that triggered the whole recall effort in the first place.

It was not the Barrett campaign which gathered all those recall signatures, organized continuous day-by-day public protests against Gov. Walker and his legislation, and raised and spent $19 million in a losing election effort.

Democrats and labor unions were behind those efforts and carried the recall campaign. Without union dedication and support, there would have been no recall.

ON THE OTHER side of the fence, an estimated $47 million flowed into the pro-Walker campaign, with an estimated $30 million coming from usually Republican outside pro-business sources.

The target of the Walker program has been to strip public employee unions of their rights to bargain collectively with public bodies. The new Wisconsin laws also require most state workers to pay more for health insurance and pension benefits.

What is unsaid at the moment is that Gov. Walker's victory could be a signal to states across the country to embolden efforts for more extensive controls of unions, both public employee unions and in private business, too.

The Wisconsin vote shows that, at least in Wisconsin, new laws that would weaken collective bargaining are not necessarily a ticket to political oblivion.

IN MICHIGAN, the Wisconsin outcome had one immediate effect.

A group called Michigan Rising halted its drive to collect the 807,000 signatures required on petitions to recall Gov. Rick Snyder.

Earlier a group unhappy with the emergency manager law, taxes on pensions, cuts and education and other assorted issues also gave up on getting a Snyder recall on the ballot.

However, Michigan Democrats and union loyalists still plan to push an amendment to the state constitution to protect and advance labor union positions, centered on prohibiting right to work legislation in Michigan.

If such a multi-faceted union protection measure does indeed make it to the November ballot, it would stir up a strong pro-union, anti-union struggle that could outdo the intensity shown in Wisconsin.

Michigan Republicans and business allies, meanwhile, talk of a counter-offensive to put right-to-work laws into the constitution — just in case.

SEVERAL POINTS should be considered when trying to analyze what happened in the Wisconsin recall.

Wisconsin was not a true test of conservative Republican and Democrat-labor election strengths, and the comparison should not automatically be applied to Michigan or other states. Mayor Barrett had run for governor three times, and was not a strong Democratic candidate, so Gov. Walker's ballot strength was not truly tested. If the race had been for-or-against the Walker anti-union program and without the candidates, the vote may have been different.

Nevertheless Scott Walker has gained national attention from the conservative edges of the national Republican Party. With this notoriety in his pocket, and with a blueprint on where and how to get money from the big spenders among conservatives, he now is a hot political prospect, and will enjoy a national stage, at least for a while.

The hard lines taken by both sides in Wisconsin reinforce the fear that the value of compromise is losing out in our governments. It's "my way or no way" for both parties. It has become very difficult for voter controlled democracy to be genuinely productive, and that is proving itself more every day.

Labor unions might do a bit of soul searching on how they should deal with elected bodies. The message has been sent that public employee unions are not necessarily loved by most voters. With changing workplaces, heralded by the growth of service industries and virtual commerce, have industrial-style unions outlived their usefulness, and are new approaches advisable?

If the Democrat-labor multifaceted pro-union proposed constitutional amendment makes it to the ballot in Michigan in November, the campaign and the results will provide a more accurate reading of what we learned — and what we did not learn — in the Wisconsin recall election.

Viewpoint

By Bill Cook, Forester and Biologist
MSU Extension, Upper Peninsula

Wildfire hazards in Michigan

Recent large wildfires over the Memorial Day weekend in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan demonstrate that parts of our well-forested Lake States remain vulnerable. Human activities increase the chances of igniting wildfires, although the Duck Lake and Seney Fires in the Eastern UP were of lightning origin.

As human populations encroach upon natural woodlands, the risk of property loss increases. So does the difficulty in fighting these fires. Lack of forest management and build-up of dead woody material add to conditions that lead to more severe fires.

The worst case scenario, perhaps, is a large expanse of mature jack pine within which houses, cottages, and camps are scattered. Should the fire get into the crowns of these forests, the force is nearly unstoppable by human efforts. At that point, the weather has to change before firefighters can become effective.

This is the case with the Duck Lake wildfire, which grew to well over 20,000 acres by the first of June. That's over 30 square miles. Property damage has been significant. Michigan has not seen a larger fire since 1976.

Most of the major wildfires over the past few decades have been in jack pine types.

During the years of low fire danger, the tendency to become complacent grows. However, this is the time to reduce the risk of fire and to reduce the risk of property damage should a fire occur.

Employing the concepts of the Firewise Program will help protect property. Michigan State University maintains a program and information base for Michigan citizens. Cutting back vegetation, removing hazards, and building modifications will help protect property in case of wildfire. The basic idea is to create a more defensible space.

Forest management can be used to reduce the risk of wildland fire and minimize its spread when a fire erupts. Fire breaks, age class differentiation, thinning, and forest type diversification are some of the tools available. Each of these tools has non-fire protection benefits, as well.

Wildfire has been a natural element of forest ecosystems since the glaciers retreated from the Great Lakes region. Jack pine and red pine are classic examples of habitats adapted to, and driven by, wildfire. As humans build into these landscapes, they assume a degree of risk, whether they know it or not. The extensive fires of natural history are no longer a viable option, although the need for those ecological benefits in these forested systems remains.

Prescribed fire is one tool to manage fire-adapted ecological systems. While not possible everywhere, and sometimes controversial, it's a viable forestry technique. Forest management that includes clearcutting and thinning can mimic wildfire effects but these techniques are at the discretion of the landowners.

A landscape occupied largely by single-age jack pine is at high risk of catastrophic fire, especially as the jack pine matures and fuel loads build. Forest management can parse the landscape into blocks of different aged jack pine. Reducing the risk and potential impacts of a crown fire is essential. Should a fire escape into the crowns of mature jack pine, the fire will drop to the ground in younger age classes. Once on the ground, fire-fighting efforts are possible.

Mature jack pine also becomes a target for jack pine budworm, which can damage and kill large areas of pine forest. The dead, dry material becomes ripe for wildfire. These are all natural forest dynamics that foresters work with to modify and reduce fire risk.

Of course, human behavior to avoid wildfire is critical as well, especially during periods of high risk. Campfires, sparks from ATVs and other equipment, smoking, fireworks, and other human-origin ignition sources cause most of the wildfires across the Lake States.

Wildfire will always be a part of forests as long as forests exist. However, through forest management and careful development the risks can be minimized. Assuming an inactive approach to forest ecology and development carries negative consequences, sooner or later.

Letters to the Editor

Local grassroots activism gets results

To the editor:

Regarding the article about the reverse 911 system for Crawford County: I would like to acknowledge the actions of some of the 44 residents who live near the edge of the Breitburn oil field, whose concerns about H2S wells close to our homes was the catalyst for fire chief Ed Holcamp to investigate the contingency plan and realize it was not adequate or implementable.

Bill Duley from the DNR was also a valuable resource for information. We appreciate that, along with the financing the reverse 911 system, Breitburn has agreed to relocate two proposed wells further away than current DNR regulations stipulate, and to repair a nearby pipeline with newer and safer materials.

This experience reinforced to me that local grassroots activism gets results and that we all need to loudly voice our concerns, especially when current environmental regulations do not ensure the safety of people.

The reverse 911 system that will benefit the entire community was above and beyond what we knew to ask for, and a great bonus.

The Bible Speaks

Paul's Encouragement

Paul now moves toward the final section of Romans with words of encouragement to the Christians at Rome beginning with Romans 15:14: "I And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another."

First, he has confidence in their doing or practice of Holy Scriptures: "I And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness...." In chapters 1-11 he had given them the strongest body of divine doctrine found in any book of the Bible. In Romans 1:7-12 he had already told them they were highly regarded as "beloved of God, called to be saints" and that their "faith is spoken of throughout the whole world." He told them they were in his prayers and he desired to visit them. "He concluded, '12That is, that I may be comforted together with you by the mutual faith both of you and me.' Being 'full of goodness' does not refer to inherent goodness by God's gift of goodness to them and through them. As James 1:17 says, '17Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.'"

Second, he has confidence in their doctrine or Biblical knowledge: "filled with all knowledge." Their faith spoken of throughout the whole world came from Holy Scripture as he told them in Romans 10:17. "17So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." Being filled with the word of God and being filled with the Holy Spirit are both evident in a strong faith. "16Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord." (Col 3:16). "17Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is. 18And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit; 19Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord."

Third, he has confidence in their defense and declaration of Holy Scriptures: "able also to admonish one another." As Paul told the Christians in 1 Thessalonians 5:11 & 14: "11Wherefore comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do...14Now we exhort you, brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feebleminded, support the weak, be patient toward all men." Again Paul writes in Hebrews 10:24,25: "24And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: 25Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching." Isaiah 35:3,4 says: "3Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees. 4Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; he will come and save you." We pray this series in Romans has been an encouragement to you. Pastor "B"

Students learn more about the Constitution

Chief Probate/District Court Judge Monte J. Burmeister recently presented several Grayling Elementary fourth graders with their own copies of the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution.

Through a grant approved by the Youth Advisory Council for the Crawford County Foundation, the court system was able to purchase pocket Constitutions from the Cato Institute for the fourth graders.

Founded in 1977, Cato owes its name to Cato's Letters, a series of essays published in 18th-century England that presented a vision of society free from excessive government power.

Those essays inspired the architects of the American Revolution.

The Cato Institute accepts no government funding. Cato receives approximately 80 percent of its funding through tax-deductible contributions from individuals, with the remainder of its support coming from foundations, corporations, and the sale of books and publications.

On May 21, Burmeister presented the framework of the Declaration of Independence and Constitution to the kids in a way fourth graders could understand.

"It was great to see the enthusiasm in the kid's faces and to see all the questions they had about our government," Burmeister said. "I think it's important for the kids to understand the founding principals of our Democracy, so that later in life, they can carry the torch of freedom as well. Discovering the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution is a good way to ensure that."

Above, Chief Probate/District Court Judge Monte J. Burmeister talks to fourth graders at the Grayling Elementary School about the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

Back to the Bricks car tour rolling into Grayling

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

An intentionally known car tour is rolling into Grayling this weekend to help rev up the downtown business district.

The Back to the Bricks Heart of Michigan Promotional Tour will stop in Grayling for a car show that will be held from 5:30 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, June 16.

Back to the Bricks was founded eight years ago in Flint. The idea was to bring cars back to the brick streets of the Vehicle City (Flint).

"It was just a couple of car collectors who got reminiscing about our high school days and cruising the bricks in the late 50's and early 60's," said Al Hatch founder and chairman of Back to the Bricks. "It's took hold and exceeded everyone's expectations."

Two years ago, Back to the Bricks started a Mitten Tour, which went up the east side of the state, then traveled down Michigan's west coast. Last year, Back to the Bricks contacted Bill Gannon, the owner of Gannon Broadcasting, regarding radio advertising. Gannon encouraged Back to the Bricks to tour communities in the center of the state, which prompted the Heart of Michigan Promotional tour.

"Hopefully, a lot of area car collectors will come and join us and because that's what it's all about," Hatch said.

A contingent of car owners from Norway will be in the tour along with about 30 cars from California. Street Rodder Magazine and a publisher of a European car magazine will be covering the tour.

The promotional tour starts in Flint and goes to Mt. Pleasant. After coming to Grayling, the car tour will make stops in Traverse City, Cadillac and Grand Rapids. The tour will make a stop in Sturgis, near the Michigan/Indiana border, before returning to the Flint/Grand Blanc area. The tour will finish with a drive into the Sloan Museum Auto Fair on June 23.

Grayling City Manager/Police Chief Doug Baum said the car show will benefit Grayling's Downtown Development Authority and will hopefully raise money for future events and activities.

"It's a different activity for people and friends to get together to enjoy a car show and have a good time," Baum said. "It will be a fun activity to give people and families something to do in Grayling so they don't have to go out of town for entertainment or to find something to do."

An entertainment tent will be downtown. A DJ will be playing music.

A Grayling-based band, called Penny and the Gents, featuring singer Penny Podjaske-Pippo, her brother Radel Rosin on drums, Al Bondar on keyboards, guitarist Donny Davis and Todd Aldrich on bass, will perform. The band will play classic rock songs as well as current tunes.

"It's a heck of a band," Bondar said. "We're still putting the finishing touches on it, but we've played a couple of shows and these kids are really, really good."

Car collectors who take part in the Grayling car show are encouraged to take part in Back to the Bricks, which will be held in Flint Aug. 14-18. Shorter, tune-up cruises, which lead into communities surrounding Flint, will take place Aug. 11-17.

Back to the Bricks is a non-profit organization that has grown in participation every year.

"Everything we do is to benefit the residents and now truefully the State of Michigan," Hatch said. "The only thing we ask for is a good turnout to look at the cars."

Varsity groups post 4-2 record at Summer Shootout

The Grayling High School boys basketball program hosted a Summer Shootout tournament on Saturday, an event that included 16 teams and two divisions: JV and varsity. "We had 16 teams play in our tourney on Saturday. Some of the teams came up north Friday night to scrimmage. We played some very good teams and did not have to travel. Plus, the tourney brought people and money to our community," said Rich Moffit, GHS varsity boys basketball coach. Grayling's varsity groups posted a combined record of 4-2 during the event. ### RAVE REVIEWS

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."
 —Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT, Johnstown, PA

"I have one of the original Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania on my wall behind my desk. It's the best thing available as far as streams are concerned. I use it all the time for reference. I don't know of anything more extensive and it is the most accurate map out there as far as streams are concerned."

The GHS boys basketball program hosted a Summer Shootout tournament on Saturday, an event that included 16 teams and two divisions: JV and varsity. Grayling had two groups in the JV division, a freshman team and a squad of sophomores. The JV group posted a 2-1 record and the 9th graders were 0-3. The tournament utilized the courts at both the high school and the middle school in Grayling. Above, Jake Hinkle dribbles the ball for Grayling's JV team during a game vs. Montrose at GMS.

GHS runner finishes 7th at state finals

Several Grayling High School track athletes qualified for the state finals this year and one of them – Devon Dawson – earned all-state recognition by placing seventh in his event at the state meet.

The MHSAA's Lower Peninsula Track and Field State Finals for Division 3 were held at Comstock Park High School on Saturday, June 2.

Dawson placed seventh in the 1600m run with a time of 4:23.44. The winner posted a time of 4:19.14.

"Devon ran a very smart race," Coach Tim Gariglio said. "On his second lap he was boxed in and tangled feet with another runner and when he regained balance he was in the middle of the pack. He had to sprint to catch back up to the lead pack and he managed to stay with them till the finish."

Nick Dorn, qualifier in the 100m dash, made it as far as the semifinals at the state meet.

Grayling's girls qualified for the state finals in two relay events: the 400m and the 800m.

The 400m group – Shanley Dorn, Sierra Schreiber, Stanna Dorn, Sam Hansen – finished 11th.

The 800m squad – the four Dorn sisters, Emily, Allison, Stanna, and Shanley – finished 27th.

St. Dorn also competed in the long jump and the 100m dash at the state finals. Sh. Dorn also ran in the 200m dash at the state meet.

"Everyone ran very well and put forth their best effort," Coach Gariglio said. "Unfortunately the (400m relay team) missed placing by two tenths of a second. The overall season went very well. These kids broke six school records this season along with several meet records."

Two Grayling golfers qualify for regionals

Grayling High School's boys golf team did not advance past districts this year, but two of its members qualified for regionals as individuals.

The Vikings took eighth place out of 11 teams during the District 21-3 tournament on May 31 at the Cheboygan Country Club. Roscommon won the event with a score of 323. Grayling posted a score of 359.

Individual scores for GHS included: Mason Krey, 83; Jake Hinkle, 86; Thomas Burrell, 89; Tyler Summers, 101; Louis Menard, 101.

Krey placed ninth overall and earned a place on the all-district team. Krey and Hinkle both qualified for regionals as individuals.

"Overall, a good season.

We won two league meets and finished second in another. We finished second in the final conference standings with a chance to win on the last day. Unfortunately we didn't finish strong in the district tournament, but it was a great group of kids. We were very young this year and we're only losing Thomas to graduation. He'll be a big loss but someone will step up next year," Coach Dan DesEnfants said.

Krey and Hinkle competed in the Division 3 Region 11 tournament on Thursday, June 7, at Lakeside Links in Scottville; neither golfer advanced to the state finals.

"Golf course played very hard. The greens are crowned and pin placements were difficult. Low score was 81. Normally at regionals there are lots of scores in the 70s," Coach DesEnfants said.

The three individual state qualifiers from Thursday's regional event posted scores of 82, 82, and 83. Hinkle scored an 84 and Krey finished at 88.

"Eighty-three qualified for states and Jake missed by one stroke. A heart-breaker. He's a freshman with a lot of golf ahead of him. Jake and Mason are the leaders of the team for next year. If we can get a couple of the other guys to improve a little, this team can be pretty good next year," Coach DesEnfants said.

Central Montcalm, Ludington, and Roscommon advanced to the state finals in the team competition.

Grayling Country Club News

Tuesday Morning Ladies Golf League

We just completed our third play for the Tuesday Morning Ladies Golf League at the Grayling Country Club and it was a great day.

One of the McNamara twins, Beverly, is in Ireland with her husband, Mike, and two boys, John and Charley, enjoying some family time abroad, while Dawn McDonald, on loan from the Monday evening league at The Grayling Country Club, filling in for Bev, helped Katy McNamara take 22 points, with Katy having a chip-in on hole # 16 for a par and Dawn taking one skin and part winner of low putts, sharing alongside of Linda Marcereau and Roxanne James and Linda Fouts, all having 33. Katy and Bev are in first place with 66.5 points with Roxanne James and Linda Marcereau in second place with 66 points. Linda Marcereau, Sandy Winkle, and Balkis Shippy each also took one skin and Roxanne got two skins plus a chip-in on hole # 7 for a birdie. Linda Fouts chipped in on #18 for a par. The day ended with lunch at the clubhouse, laughing about the variables we shared in water balls, sand traps, the ones we could not find, along with the great shots, and those that weren't.

If you are looking for a league with people that try to play a good game of golf while having fun, come join us; we would love to have you play with us.
